

A FREE CLASSROOM SESSION · GRADES 8-12 · THE WOODLANDS, TEXAS

Look Closer

One class period. Your students find what a business owner can't see.

Teams of three get a card describing a real-looking local business — a waffle window on the Waterway, a barbershop at Creekside Park, a lawn crew in Panther Creek. The card gives them the facts and the numbers. Their job is to find the one thing holding that business back, prove it with arithmetic, and defend it to the room in sixty seconds. Then they find out what the fix would be worth in real dollars.

Students are working for 23 of the 50 minutes. That ratio is the whole design.

WHAT THEY WALK AWAY WITH

"I could actually do this."

Not a definition and not a worksheet they will lose. One belief, earned by doing the work — plus three ideas that outlast the period: every business has one thing holding it back; being busy and making money are not the same thing; and you find the answer by counting, not by being a genius.

What we bring	What we need from you
A facilitator who runs the full period	Fifty minutes of class time
Every printed material, ready to go	A whiteboard and desks that group in threes
The full lesson plan and answer key, yours to keep and reuse	Nothing else. No technology required.

WHAT WE DO NOT DO

We do not sell anything to students, collect their information, or spend the period talking about our firm. There is no cost to the school and nothing to sign. Every business in the materials is invented — the streets and shopping centres are real so the exercise feels like home, but no real business is described.

WHERE IT FITS

Principles of Business, Marketing & Finance · Entrepreneurship · Money Matters · Economics · Career exploration and advisory · DECA and FBLA chapter meetings. No prior business coursework is assumed.

Fenwick How

Founder, The Aperture Method™ — a business intelligence firm in The Woodlands. My work is helping owner-run businesses see what is actually holding them back. This is the same work, handed to your students, for free.

To book a visit: hello@aperturemethod.com · Send your school, course and two dates. We confirm within two business days and send the materials ahead so you can see exactly what your students will be handed.

Prefer to run it yourself? The whole packet is free to download and copy at aperturemethod.com/look-closer.
